Dear Mr. Weiss:

I was surprised and pleased to receive your call. In today's world of "Sell it and Run", it is refreshing to know that there are a few companies still out there that care about their product and customers to do follow up calls. Even if it is nine years later.

In answer to your query, the railing is doing great. At first we were skeptical about the claims of being maintenance free, but after nine years, we have not only become believers, but as you must be aware, we have been recommending it to all our friends and associates. In fact, if you have any skeptics interested in your product, feel free to have them check into our "Little Slice of Paradise" and take a look at a nine year testimony to the durability of your railing.

Once again, thanks for the call. We are happy to recommend Saftron Safety Railing to anyone who is looking for a maintenance free railing.

Very truly yours

Robert White, President
